

Contents of

The customer would like to suppress these undershoot and overshoot. Do you have any ideas using register setting which is relation to SGMII? It seems that there is no way which is to use register setting.

So, as the method of hardware
-To remove the connector
-To insert damping resistance
Is our recognition correct?